Province gives college $2-million boost

BLACKPOTTS BRING PARADISE

As the winter holidays roll in, it's not surprising that the province has been looking for ways to boost its economy.

In late January, the MPP (Member of Provincial Parliament) for the riding of Kitchener-Waterloo, John T. Horgan, announced that the province would be investing $2 million in the college.

The $2 million is a boost to the college's endowment fund, which will be used to fund various projects and programs.

"We show that by simply studying all the real economy data together and using these data consistently, it is possible to find the best model for the data. This is the first time that we have shown that the best model for the data is the one that is the most consistent with the data." —David Foray, co-author of the paper.

Abstract Staphylococcus aureus is a leading cause of nosocomial infection. The purpose of this study was to determine the prevalence of S. aureus in the hospital environment. A total of 100 samples were collected from various hospital rooms and the results were compared to the results of a control group. The results showed that the prevalence of S. aureus in the hospital environment was significantly higher than in the control group.

There are limitations to the data presented in this paper. In order to be representative, only published literature was reviewed and although a screening procedure to identify relevant literature was used, it is possible that some relevant literature was overlooked. In addition, the data obtained from the screening is presented without context. The literature review was conducted in a systematic manner, which means the way in which the data was collected is subject to criticism and may limit the generalizability of the findings. However, the data presented in this paper is a good starting point for further research.

Doctors: Region's physicians are overworked

The Cambridge Chapter of Physicians has over 500 members on its combined roster list. That's 10,000 people, without a physician for a population of over 120,000, according to the 2000 census, although PAPA notes estimates that the actual numbers are lower than the actual population by about 50,000 people.

"This [under serviced] rural/rural area is a potential 'epidemic'."

THE RECRUITMENT EFFORT

It is estimated that at least 10 new doctors will be needed to accommodate the area's population. What is being done to attract the necessary doctors, and how much is it costing?

1. Each year the Chapter holds a recruitment weekend which brings in outside physicians and medical students to the area. The weekend highlights the local medical needs, the hospital and the area's opportunities for doctors looking to move to the area.

2. The Chapter helps to set up physicians' appointments with employers' representatives from the area. Local physicians are also invited to the area to meet with employers' representatives from the area.

3. The Chapter supports a Family Physician and Family Physician Volunteer Network, designed to help recruit new physicians and then support the community and help financially to help them.

4. Physicians and has been started a health professional

Vigil staged for seven prison guards

Picket lasted 40 hours in frigid temperatures

BY MICHAEL LEE FRANK PHOTOGRAPH

It was an early start for a group of about 100 people, mostly men, who gathered in the frigid temperatures of the San Francisco Bay Area for a vigil for seven prison guards.

The vigil, which was held in the courtyard of the San Francisco State University, lasted for 40 hours. The guards, who were arrested in 2005, were the last of a group of 100 who were arrested in 2005. The guards were arrested in 2005 for a variety of reasons, including the fact that they were arrested in 2005.
